Just One Night| Gabenath

by Wisteria_acc

Summary

It was frustrating to watch Nathalie at a distance, his breath hitched as he downed his third glass. He couldn't stop thinking of the way he bit her cherry lips, with her neck exposed like that, and the way her dress perfectly formed her chest.

Notes

So this is my first ever Gabenath smut, I have no experience whatsoever. Since I'm a huge fan of this ship, I decided write a one shot, I finished this fic within 3 days, so bare with me. It would be much appreciated if you guys could give me some feedback <3

It had been so long since Gabriel Agreste threw a party at his abode. He was never really a social butterfly, to begin with, you must be wondering why he threw such a big social event, it was actually to avoid suspicion. Months of staying home, people would suspect something, he was famous after all, and of course, he didn't want anyone to suspect that he was the reason for the Akuma attacks all over Paris. He had just opened a new branch in Shanghai, and you could say it was an excuse to celebrate, a perfect one, he supposed.

There he was, standing in front of a buzzing throng, perfectly well dressed for the occasion, greeting some of the guests as they went on their way to sway on the music and socialize. Gabriel was tempted to take a glass of wine served on a tray as the waiter passed by because he knew if he'd take one, he would never stop. He had done it before, drank his sorrows away until he passed out, but he preferred doing it alone ever since Emilie---

Fortunately, someone was there to help distract himself from making a scandal, unfortunately, it was Audrey Bourgeois.
Her mouth could not stop talking, as she buzzed on about the decorations, how it wasn't "in season", Gabriel couldn't care less, he thought he had outdone himself-- not that it mattered. His eyes and ears wandered somewhere else as Audrey kept going, his gaze landed on someone.

A familiar dark hair with a rebellious red streak, only there was something different about her. Instead of her normal attire, she wore a black dress, the dress was above her knees, it seemed short, at least for him since she never saw Nathalie's legs before, not like that. She was busy having a conversation with one of his guest, the way she was constantly tapping on her heel had she admired her calves, her eyes went further up to her long slender legs, he thought of how smooth it looked, and slender her waist was---

Snapped out of it!

His attention was back on Audrey as he shuddered at his inappropriate thoughts, it was normal, he told himself. He was a man after all. What Audrey had said, he didn't know, he just nodded along and said "yes" here and there. But his eyes kept stealing glances at a certain someone at the other side of the room, Nathalie had accidentally caught his eye, he mentally cursed himself as he looked away and plucked a glass of wine just as another waiter passed by.
It was better than staring at someone, inappropriately.

"I look forward to seeing your next designs, fashion week is close. You know how I hate to be disappointed," He finally caught what Audrey said.

He almost rolled his eyes. "I assure you, I only provide the best,"

"Hmph" Audrey made a sound.

Gabriel took another sip out of his glass.

"Mr. Agreste?"

He turned around to see his assistant, that's when he noticed how she wasn't wearing her glasses, aside from that, her bun was styled differently, it was more delicate.

"Nathalie, what is it?"

"You have a phone call waiting for you on the telephone," She said.

Gabriel was stunned for a moment, he didn't remember scheduling a phone call especially the night of the party. He was about to say something when he caught her eye.

"Oh, of course," He said and turned to Audrey, "Excuse me for a moment, Audrey, I have a phone call to attend to,"

Audrey didn't look pleased but didn't say anything, she just turned sharply and strutted away.

"Thank you," He turned back to Nathalie, relieved of how he didn't have to deal with her anymore.

"It was nothing," She replied. "I know how frustrating it is talking to her,"

Gabriel almost laughed, almost.

She was now perfectly aware of how tall his boss was, despite wearing pretty high heels. She was now aware that he can see her upper chest, she had now regretted wearing a sweetheart tube. Nathalie never felt naked in front of him, she crossed her arms, hoping it would cover her but it just made her upper chest more visible, she rested her arms to the side and now she felt barer, she crossed them again and it felt like he was staring at her chest, she put her arms to the side and repeated the pattern for a while.

Gabriel cleared his throat, why was it hard to talk to her like this?

"Would you like a drink?" He blurted the only words that came out of his head. She bit his lip, that's when he realized that she had put on red lipstick, it stood out her light make up on her face. He noticed how exposed her neck was, he gulped.

"No thank you. I'd like to have a clear head for the remainder of the night," she said. "I do hope, you enjoy your party,"

What Nathalie meant was 'I hope you don't lock yourself in your office and sulk there for the rest of the night and leave me here to talk with the guests,'

Gabriel knew exactly what she meant.

"I have to go find Adrien," she said and walked away, Gabriel lingered for a while as she went on her way before composing himself.

It was feeling a little hot for Nathalie, despite wearing a revealing outfit. The way her boss had looked at her, made her red. Maybe she was imagining things? Maybe the outfit was a bit much, she thought. Gabriel did say to dress for the occasion, it was a cocktail party after all. She had arrived late because of choosing the "right" outfit, one of the things she wasn't proud of.

She had completely forgotten what she was gonna do, she felt some stares coming her way, but she had completely ignored them.

"Adrien," she remembered.

"Nathalie?" Adrien looked stunned just as she approached the pillars. "You look flustered, is everything all right?"

"Oh, it's nothing -- I'm just not used to dressing like this at a party,"

"Well, you look beautiful," He gave a smile.

He was such a sweet boy.

"Thank you, Adrien." She smiled back. "I'm here to remind you of your bedtime, your father specifically instructed you to go to bed at 9:00,"

"Will do," He sighed. It wasn't like he had something to do at the party. "Actually, Nathalie, can you tell my father that--"

But it was too late, Nathalie had walked away to instruct the caterers on what they have to do. What Nathalie hated about Gabriel's party is that she has to be the one to manage the whole event, that's why she promised herself that she couldn't drink tonight, even though it was clear that she needed one.

She could not wait to get it over it. A part of her job was to talk to the guests, even though it was boring, she resisted. Gabriel was doing the same thing, as he entertained the guests, but his eyes couldn't help but look for his assistant.

The party went on smoothly of course, but as the night went on, guests started to leave.

"Have you seen your father?" Nathalie asked Adrien as he went on the way to his room.

"I think I saw him went to his office,"

She sighed.

It was frustrating to watch Nathalie at a distance, his breath hitched as he downed his third glass. He couldn't stop thinking of the way he bit her cherry lips, with her neck exposed like that, and the way her dress perfectly formed her chest.

What was he thinking?

It was the alcohol talking, not him. He convinced himself, Nathalie was his assistant and nothing else. It was unprofessional to think of such things. He felt the heat inside him turn into fire, he couldn't help but feel something beneath, he groaned as he marched towards his office and grabbed a bottle on the way.

It was dark inside, just the way he liked it. The only source of light was the moon that shined through the window and a lamp on his desk. With the bottle in his hands, he opened it and took a swig, drinking his thoughts away, the fire burning inside him was still there. It wasn't like him to act this way, he looked at his wife's portrait to remind himself that he was married, he was married.

How he had missed his wife. He took another swig out of his drink. The gaping hole in his chest had punctured him completely, there was no hope until he would succeed.

His thoughts were interrupted when he heard a sudden knock at the door.

His mouth automatically said, 'come in.'

There she appeared, the woman who had been haunting his thoughts all night, the one who would do anything for him, the one would go far to please him---

"Sir?" Nathalie looked at him questioningly. "If you don't mind me asking-"

"Nathalie, please join me," He had regretted his words, he just followed the fire burning inside him.

"Sir, I don't think--"

"Please," He stopped her.

Being obedient as ever, she sighed and leaned on her back next to him at his desk, he offered him a bottle, she couldn't refuse and took a sip.

This was an unusual situation for the both of them, here they were sitting on a desk, sharing a bottle in a dark room with many people around the house instead of working.

"I missed her," Gabriel said out of nowhere.

He didn't have to say a name but Nathalie knew who he meant. "I know you do, but you'll bring her back,"

"Even if it meant doing the unthinkable," He took a sip and handed the bottle to Nathalie.

"It's because you love her," She assured him.

"It's not like I don't regret my actions, I do. Every day, I'm terrorizing Paris, risking thousands of lives, including Adrien and I always fail," He choked.

It wasn't the first time she saw him this vulnerable, and this wasn't the first time she was comforting him either.

"Achieving won't be easy, but I'll be right by your side along the way," She smiled, maybe it was the alcohol talking, she was feeling a bit tipsy, but somehow, it felt right. Nathalie placed the bottle to her side.

He shifted a bit closer, Nathalie admired his eyes, he couldn't quite make out the color due to the lack of lights, it was greyish blue?

"I know," he replied. His urge had come back when she stared at her deep blue eyes, her neck that had been distracting him since she arrived, and her soft lips. "Just this one night, if you let me..."

Nathalie's eyes widened in surprise as he leaned closer. Panic surged through her body, her mind told her to pull away but her body reacted differently. She closed her eyes and kissed him, it was soft and tangy, their lips moved in perfect rhythm, suddenly, she pulled away.

Gabriel knew he had taken it too far, but he couldn't help but feel furious, how dare she pulls away from him, she could be the only one who can fill the gaping hole in his heart, even just for a while he wanted to demand her to come back, his urge of desire was only becoming stronger, his eyes still closed.

"Just one night," He heard her whisper, she removed his glasses.

He felt her arms wrapped around his neck, he responded by wrapping his arms around her waist, it felt so satisfying to find Nathalie's lips crashing into his. Their kiss was no longer soft but intense, rough, passionate as their tongue fight for dominance. His hands roamed around her body, Nathalie let out a moan as he did so, it completely aroused him and filled him with satisfaction.

"Shouldn't---we---be going back---to the--party?" She managed to utter.

"Mhhm, later,"

His hands went down to caress her legs, his assumptions from earlier were right, it was smooth. He started kissing her neck, nibbling and teasing her, it made her groan with pleasure. The things he could do to her if they weren't in a party---

She tugged at his suit jacket, he was happily obliged to remove it. Nathalie helped him, impatiently. Not breaking his lips on her skin. She wrapped her legs around his waist as he carried her and placed her on the desk. He broke contact to gaze upon her, her delicate bun that seemed like it took many hours to do now a mess, some of her lipstick was smeared and her breathing was getting heavier.

Gabriel's eyes darkened, as he went on his knees. It felt like Nathalie wore that dress for a reason, it made it convenient for him, his hands went inside and removed her black underwear, slowly, delicately until it dropped to the floor. She spread her legs as Gabriel proceeded to work below, Nathalie tried not to make too much noise, she constantly bit her lip but it was no use, muffled moans escaped from her mouth as she dug her fingernails onto his shoulders. The way his tongue expertly moved inside her, he knew what he was doing.

As soon as he got her where he wanted, he stood up. Nathalie pulled him closer kissing him on his neck as she ruffled his soft hair. Her fingers fumbled to undo his buttons, but she managed to finish them all, his shirt fell to the floor. Gabriel thought it was her turn to undress, she reached for the zipper on her back and began zipping it down. Nathalie tug into his pants, he immediately responded by unbuckling his belt. Nathalie noticed the large bulge, she gulped as he held her waist.

Gabriel thought this was wrong. If he'd closed her eyes, she could imagine that it was Emilie, but he didn't close his eyes. His assistant was right in front of him, the fire inside him had led up to this moment. He needed her. Nathalie put her arms around his shoulders as Gabriel entered inside her, she moaned loudly, hoping no one would hear her. He thrust himself, her cries had only motivated him to go faster, their hips rocked together in unison. Gabriel closed his eyes, savoring this moment, she was extremely good at this, even better than Emilie, he supposed but it was no time to compare them. He was the verge of his climax, he needed to--

"Father?" Adrien knocked at the door.

The two scrambled to get away from each other, grabbing their clothes on the floor. Nathalie hid behind the desk, thankfully, Adrien didn't come in.

"Father?" He called out again.

"Yes, yes," He struggled to fix his pants. "Adrien, what is it?"

Nathalie clutched the dress so it wouldn't fall, as it was now loosed because of the unzipped back as he crouched behind the desk.

"The guests are leaving and they wanted to talk to you first," He said from the other side of the door.

"I'll be right there," He fixed his shirt and done his buttons with an impressive speed, "Just a second."

He put on his suit jacket and hastily put his suit on.

"Have you seen Nathalie?" Adrien called out.

"No," He said. "I think she's downstairs."

Nathalie felt her heart dropped to her stomach. Regret now etched on her face. Gabriel witnessed her expression as he turned around to check on her, she was halfway zipping up her back. He gave her an apologetic look, Nathalie couldn't look at him straight in his eyes.

'Just go,' she mouthed.

He straightened his crumpled outfit and dusted off some dirt. Without a word he went outside and closed the door leaving Nathalie all alone in the darkroom, sitting on the cold floor.

How she felt at the moment, was indescribable yet it was strong and had weakened her knees. She wanted to stay and sit there for the whole night but she knew she couldn't. Mustering all her strength, she stood up and smoothened her dress, adjusting it back into place. Her hair that she spent hours on doing now a complete mess so she decided to do her usual bun, she wiped off the smeared make up all over her. Letting out a breath, she opened the door and went back to the party as if nothing had happened.
