Magic Touch

by xx_Katastrophe

Summary

A weird, shimmery substance finds its way onto Nathalie's desk. When she and Gabriel both touch it, something very weird begins to fester between them, and it spirals out of control.

Notes

The direct prequel to She Talks to an Angel. :)

Nathalie reentered the office, holding a stack of paperwork he had requested her to fetch. As she sat down at her desk, she noticed a bizarre, shimmery substance on her desk. It was green and red, and almost resembled glitter. She didn't think much of it, and wiped the substance with her fingers. Instead of it just sticking to her skin, it absorbed itself into her skin with a faint glow, surging into her capillaries. She stared in awe at the phenomenon that just happened-- hopefully whatever this was wouldn't be poison in the end.

Gabriel looked over at her from his podium monitor, and then walked over to her desk. Not paying any mind to the shimmery red and green substance on her desk, he placed his hand flat in it, before Nathalie could warn him. The glittery substance absorbed into his hand, and through his capillaries as well. The sensation was bizarre, the substance sending what felt like small bolts of lighting through his fingers. Minutes later, he began to feel off. He couldn't explain why, but as Nathalie was taking the time to explain what she had accomplished, her words blurred into just noise from her mouth. His mind was wandering somewhere else. When did she look so attractive? Her lips looked so soft and kissable; he just wanted to kiss them.

"Mister Agreste, are you alright? Your face is flushed and you're sweating. Would you like a seat?" Nathalie asked. She crossed her legs tighter, trying to suppress any unsavory thoughts, though they persisted. What did she touch? What sort of earthly substance would do such a thing to her? This had to be a work of magic in some way…

"Oh… no, no… I'm okay." He swallowed dryly. She slowly rose from her chair, naturally approaching him. Her mind was yelling at her to back off but her body only craved being close to him. She could tell he was feeling the same, or at least that's what she was telling herself. Hastily, he tugged her close and pulled her into a kiss. Her arms wrapped around him loosely, as the effects of the mysterious substance began to take over. Their kiss deepend, as his tongue found its way into her mouth, which she eagerly accepted. Finding herself being backed against the wall as their passion kept growing. She slowly pulled away from his mouth, their lips connected with a small strand of saliva. They were breathing heavily and gazing deep into each other's eyes.

"Nathalie, what's going on…?"

"I don't know, Mister Agreste…" She muttered softly, looking away from him in shame.

He tilted her head up by her chin. “Nathalie, you know you don’t have to call me that…”

“I know… Force of habit, I suppose.” She mumbled. Her glance casted downward as she had felt something pressing against her- something quite warm and firm. Gabriel also noticed, and looked rather embarrassed.

“Oh my god, I’m so sorry. How unprofessional of me.” He grumbled, trying his best to try rid himself of his erection. The tightness in his pants was suddenly quite obvious and now uncomfortable to him. Nathalie instead smirked, a hand boldly moving across to his straining and aching bulge.

She began to rub gently. “What, and you think us kissing in broad daylight in our office was any more professional? What’s the harm in taking it a bit further?” Her voice dropped to a whisper.

Shivers traveled through his spine as his breath hitched. He leaned into her touch, rocking his hips into her hand. “Nathalie…”

“Yes?”

“I… I need you.” The words spilled out of his mouth without much thought.

She smiled gently. “I will do anything for you, si-- Gabriel.”

He smiled as she said his first name. “Only if you want to. Don’t feel obligated if you aren’t comfortable.”

She looked him in the eyes. “I do want to. I love-- would love nothing more.” She caught herself before she said something she’d almost certainly regret.

“Then shall we take it to your room?”

She nodded, as the two of them untangled their bodies from one another. She quickly abandoned the stack of papers on her desk, as they absconded from the office space and up the stairs. Making sure that they were alone on the floor, they walked down the hall to her bedroom, and quickly shut the door behind them after they entered. Once they were finally alone, Gabriel allowed his hands to roam across her. They ran slowly along her hips, as he leaned in for another kiss. In her hands, she held his face. In their passionate embrace, they slowly made their way to her bed. As his tongue met hers, she slowly slipped off his suit jacket, and then yanked his ascot out of his shirt. The vast room soon filled with the sounds of soft moans and gasps and the rustling of clothing being stripped away. As their lips parted again, they exchanged good, long looks at each other, the pair remaining in just their undergarments.

"God, Nathalie, you're absolutely gorgeous." He mumbled, as he took in every detail of her. His fingers traced along the lace trim of her violet panties. "Truly ethereal…"

Her face was burning bright and hot, as she swallowed her nerves. "Thank you… That is probably the nicest thing I've ever heard in regards to my appearance…"

"Really?"

She nodded. "I don't consider myself that attractive, personally. I think I'm… average looking at most."

"Well, I disagree with that judgement, because I believe you're one of the most gorgeous women on this planet."

She swore her face couldn't get any hotter than it already was. "You're very kind, Gabriel… You're very easy on the eyes yourself…"

He smiled warmly at her, as he reached around her back and unclasped her bra. It fell on her lap. He knelt down in front of her, and leaned into her neck. His lips trailed across her skin, planting tender kisses from her jawline down to her collarbone. She leaned her head to the side, her fingers finding their way to his hair. Her fingers carded through his hair, though with a little bit of trouble given that his hair was loaded with product. A soft moan escaped her lips as his hands found their way to her breasts, cupping them. With gentle hands he squeezed them, her nipples caught between his fingers. Her breath hitched as he pinched them gently. He nibbled on her collarbone, before trailing more kisses to the opposite side of her neck. He was sure to leave a mark on her, which drew a soft whine from her. He pulled away from her, before bringing himself to his feet again.

Panting lightly, and eager to help him out, her hands went to the waistband of his underwear. “May I?”

He nodded, as she quickly pulled the garment down. His semi-hard cock was exposed to her, and her hand instinctively wrapped around it. Her hand began to stroke him, with his hips bucking reflexively. He chewed on his lower lip, gaze averting down to her. Her eyes met his, and their soft, gentle nature struck a chord with his heart. He loved her more than he realized. Quickly, he realized he was a bit too eager for what was to come. His hands reached hers, and deftly took hold of them. She laid back on the bed, realizing that he was seemingly just as eager as she was. As he crawled onto the bed on top of her, his hands rested at her hips and his fingers hooking into the waistband of her panties. “Are you sure you want to do this still?” He asked, just to be sure.

“Very sure…” She responded, as she reached up and removed his glasses from his face. She gently placed them towards the foot of the bed. In turn, his hands slowly pulled down her panties, and dropped them to the floor. The fingers of his right hand ran along her slit, feeling that she was already quite slick. The sensation caused her to shiver, as she realized that she was aching to feel him in her more than ever. The thought has surely crossed her mind before, but now that it was happening for real, she was more hungry than ever. Taking hold of his cock, he pressed the tip right to teasingly running it along her folds. She moaned softly, tingles traveling up her spine. “Please, Gabriel… I need you.”

“Well… I suppose I can’t keep you waiting, can I, my dear Nathalie?” He asked her softly, lining himself up with her, and sinking into her. He grit his teeth, and allowed his hands to find hers again. As he hilted inside of her, his fingers entangled with hers, as he held them down. His thrusts started off slow and gentle, as he leaned down to kiss her lips once again. Her legs wrapped around his waist almost instantly, which only made his thrusts shallow, but deep within her. Though their lips were often pressed to the others’, soft moans and pants still filled her bedroom. This wasn’t just a casual hookup… this was obviously something more.

His rhythm picked up tempo, which only caused their breathing to speed up and become more shallow. Her back arched off the bed slightly, her legs tightening around him. Never had she felt such intense sensations with anyone else. Pulling away from his lips, she choked out, “Gabriel… fuck…”

He became more attentive to her sounds, and never realized how attractive she was when she said his name like that. She was quickly becoming undone, as he had never heard such uncouth language from her before, not that he minded. In fact, it only drove him to pick up his pace, rocking his hips up into her every so often. This struck a particularly pleasurable sensation for her, causing her to cry out in ecstasy as he did so. Her toes curled, and their hands held onto each other tighter. Quickly, she was approaching her climax, her walls starting to contract as her toes relaxed, but then immediately curled up again. He kept up this pace, breathing heavier. His brain was becoming hazy, hyperfocusing on Nathalie. Her form was so gorgeous, especially in this state, and even more so when she was orgasming just below him. Hearing her moan out his name as she reached peak bliss instantly brought him even closer. He wanted to pull out of her, but as she was slowly coming off her high, her legs were preventing him from being able to do as such. Her thumbs lovingly rubbed over the back of his hands, as a silent form of encouragement. He saw that look in her eyes… and how could he deny the lady what she wanted? A few more strokes, and he hilted inside of her once more. He breathed heavily, cock twitching as he came deep within her. As he pulled out of her, their mixed fluids leaked from her and onto the comforter below them. They took a moment to process what had just happened between them. The haze from their minds were gone, as clarity overcame them both.

“...We should probably get back to work, shouldn’t we?” Nathalie asked him awkwardly, untangling her fingers from his. As she sat up, he sat beside her. He looked at her.

“No. I think we’re done for the day…” He responded, as he then made himself comfortable by laying down in her bed. He urged her to join him.

“But it’s the middle of the afternoon… We can’t be done now…” She protested.

“And I say we are… this is my company, after all…” He replied back, making sure to leave enough room for her. She reluctantly crawled over him, grabbing his glasses before laying beside him. She handed them over to him, and he put them back on. After that, he immediately pulled her close, his arms wrapping around her, and one hand even resting on the back of her head. She was confused, but warmly accepted his affections in silence. The oxytocin was flowing strongly in both of them.

“...This… wasn’t just a one time thing, was it?” She then asked him, looking up to him. She didn’t want to get her hopes up just yet.

“Not a chance. Unless… you want it to be.”

“No, definitely not… I believe that this should happen more often.” She proposed.

“I concur…” He responded, by only cuddling her more. She felt more love for him than ever before, and she could confidently say that he felt the same, which was a relief to her. For now, the two of them just decided to enjoy each other’s warmth and comfort for now… the serious questions and conversations can wait.
